HERNDON TOWN COUNCIL TO HOST PANEL DISCUSSION ON HOUSING POLICY

December 31, 2020 (Herndon, VA) – In an effort to build proficiency and understanding in matters related to development of housing policy, the Herndon Town Council is hosting a panel discussion:

WHEN: Tuesday, January 5, 2021, 10am

WHERE: Via WebEx

WHO: Panelists include:

- Senator Barbara Favola, District 31. Representing citizens of Arlington, Fairfax and Loudoun counties in the Virginia Senate since 2012, Senator Favola has vast experience and knowledge of housing issues in Northern Virginia. Prior to her service in the Senate, she served on the Arlington County Board, including three terms as board chair.
- Senator Jennifer Boysko, District 33. A resident of the Town of Herndon since 1996, Senator Boysko has served in the Virginia General Assembly since 2015, first in the House of Delegates and then elected to the Senate in 2019. Her service as an elected official, as well as her prior role as legislative aide to Fairfax County Supervisor John Foust, has resulted in a wide breadth of knowledge about Fairfax County housing and land use issues.
- Jeff Gore, Hefty Wiley & Gore. Gore's firm represents clients before the Virginia General Assembly, state branch agencies and regulatory boards on issues related to housing. He has successfully advocated for numerous legislative and budgetary measures on behalf of Virginia localities; has previously served as an attorney at the Virginia Division of Legislative Services; and is the former director of Governmental Affairs for the Virginia Association of Counties.

A Q&A session will follow the panel discussion. Members of the public who wish to participate may register via the following link (also accessible at Herndon-va.gov, see "Events" on the homepage):
